IT FOLLOWED A LONG CHASE BY A LONG ISLAND WATCHMAN.

Both Parsacr and Pursued Were Wounded in the Interchange of Shots-The Burgler, Who Stat Robbed a Tatlor's Shop in Maspeth, Finally Surrendered. A blg, raw-boned German, describing himself as livery Eckert, 31 years old, of 1,429 Myrtle avenue, Ridgewood, was taken to St. John's Hospital, in Long Island City, yesterday, to be treated for a compound fracture of the right leg near the thigh, caused by a ha-celibre bullet from the revolver of Deputy Sheriff Renry Martin of Newtown, who acts as special watchman in Maspeth at night. Near the corner of Lexington and Grand avenues, about 2:30 o'clock

Festerday morning, Martin encountered Eckert, who was loaded down with two well-filled bags. Martin's suspicions were aroused, and he called upon Eckert. who was trying to edge away, to halt. A short parley ensued, during which Eckert declared that he was on his way home from work with his clothing. An end of a black jack sticking out of one of Eckert's pockets attracted Martin's attention, and when he mentioned this to Eckert the latter dropped his bag and dashed away down Maiden lane. Drawing his revolver, Martin started in pursuit. He emptied his weapon at the fleeing man. but none of the shots took effect, and the two men went floundering along in the darkness and through the mud until they reached the Ulrich property, when Eckert bounded lightly over a e and took refuge behind a barn. Rejonding his revolver, Martin advanced cautiously toward the barn, calling to the man to surrender. Eckert soon started off again and the chase was Eckert soon started off again and the chase was resumed. Up Maiden lane went pursued and pursuer, Martin again firing to no purpose at the fugitive. From Maiden lane they finally ran into the North Hempstead plank road. In the mean time, Martin was gaining on Eckert, and, when near John Helletz's property, the watchman reached out his hand to grasp the fugitive by the collar, at the same time raising his weapon with the intention of striking him on the head. But the wity Eckert was only feigning exhaustion. The moment Martin's weapon was raised in the sir he sprang around like a flash with a revolver in his hand. Institutively the watchman tried to ward off the weapon with his left arm. Simultaneously with the motion there was a report, and a builet from Eckert's revolver attrick the watchman in the left arm below the ellow and came out at the biceps above.

a report, and a builet from Eckert's revolver struck the vatchman in the left arm below the elbow and came out at the biceps above.

As the shot was fired the men came together. It was such close quarters that Martin was unable to rabe his revolver, but as the builet entered his right arm, he pulled the trigger of his wespen, and Eckert fell to the road badly wounded. Despite his desperate condition, Eckert attempted to continue the fight. Hausing himself to a sitting posture he fired two shots at Martin, who retreated to a safe distance.

The noise of the shots alarmed near-by residents, and County Overseer of the Foor Jeromus hapelys, Joseph Schell, and Arthur Wiseman hurried out to Martin's assistance. The wounded man was still waving his weapon in the air looking for a target. Martin called out to him to surrender or they would kill him, and Eckert haally threw his revolver down. The weapon was quickly withdrawn from his reach. He was then handcuffed.

A wagon was procured and Eckert and the wounded watchman, who was fast becoming weak from the less of blood, were taken aboard and driven to Newtown, where their wounds were dressed by Dr. Frank Hooth and Dr. A. C. Combes.

Eckert was found to be dangerously wounded.

and driven to Newtown, where their wounds were dressed by Dr. Frank Booth and Dr. A. C. Combee.

Eckert was found to be dangerously wounded. Spinters of bone were taken out of the wound and his limb was placed in a plaster Paris cast. Later in the morning he walved examination before Justice Conroy, and was sent to Long Island City Isli to await the action of the Queens County Grand Jury. Sheriff Norton had him removed to St. John's Haspital.

After the excliement of the capture an investigation was made, which disclosed that the bags Eckert was carrying contained twenty-five ceals and a number of spools of thread and trimaings. They mad been stolen from the tailor shop of Louis Posner at Grand street and the Forth Hempstead plank road. In order to effect an entrance into the shop, Eckert, with the aid of a bit and brace, had bored 155 anger holes in the side of the building, cutting out a space large enough to admit a man's body. The cutting was made accurately and neatly, as if it all had been measured out beforehand.

Among Eckert's effects were found twenty-two skeleton keys, a burglar's outfit, including a dark lantern and the brace and bit with which the cutting was made. The black luck which attracted the attention of the watenham was a vicious looking affair. It consisted of a long stick, to which was attached a piece of garden hose, the upper end of which was filled with lead. Just enough of the hose between the lead and stick was left unfilled to make the weapon flexible and give it a rebound.

Later in the day the Brooklyn police reported that the address given by the prisoner was fictious. When seen in the hospital last night the wounded man said he had no home. He was a ship carpenter by trade, he said, but had been out of work for more than eight months, and for some time back had been sleeping in barns. He address lime and hose, he said, but had been out of work for more than eight months, and for some time back had been sleeping in barns. He added that he was driven to stealing in order to obtai

A New Receiver for the darvis-Conkling Mortgage Trust Company,

Judge Laconshe of the United States Circuit Court has appointed John T. Willets, President of the Leather Manufacturers' National Bank, a receiver of the Jarvis-Conkling Mortgage Company in place of Samuel N. Jarvis, resigned. This action is the outcome of a decision rendered by the same Judge on Sept. 22 in the suit of Elizabeth Carnett against the trust company, of Fitzabeth Garnett against the trust company. In which she alleged mismanagement of the trust estate by the receivers. The Court decided that there had been no mismanagement of the trust, but intimated that Jarvis, who had been one of the managers of the company, should resign from the Reorganization Committee, on the ground that oppe sition to the proposed plan of reorganization having developed, he could no longer act on the committee and remain neutral as receiver. Mr. Jarvis, hereever, saw fit to resign his receivership, and the Court has permitted him to do so. The other receiver, who was also a manager of the bankvapt company, Roland C. Couchin, is under updet though he is a practically a member of the ideorganization Committee, being its receiver.

A Vote Favoring the Halttmore Plan of Amending the Hanking Laws, BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 .- The second day of the American Bankers' Convention spened with prayer by the Rev. Arthur Chilton Powell, Comptroller Eckels was escorted to the stage and made an address, Reports from the Executive Council were read, and then Mr Charles C. Homer, President of the Second National Bank of Baltimore, read a paper commenting upon the proposed amendments to the National Banking act. Upon the conclusion of the address Mr. A. B. Hepburn, President of the Third National Bank, New York, spoke.

G. L. Christian, President of the Virginia Na-tional Bank of Richmond, read a paper on the subject of the proposed amendments to the national banking law.

Mr. White of New York said he was giad that bankers had at last taken up the subject of bankers had at last taken up the subject of finance in earnest. The masses of the peopledid not understand the financial system, and were no more capable of taking charge of the fiscal arrangements of the country than a land lubler is of directing the management of an ocean greybound in a storm at sea. The undisciplined public wanted one thing to-day and demanded another to morrow.

public wanted one thing to-day and demanded another to-morrow.

It is an historical fact, he said, that the charters of some of New York's largest banking institutions of to-day were secured in 1830, and previous thereto, by bribing the Legislature. The national banking system has put a stop to that sort of legislation, and the speaker had every confidence that if the bankers of the country would try they could have the law amended so as to make it as near perfect as possible.

amended so as to make it as a proposed sible,

J. C. Hendrix said that bankers had been maligned and traduced long enough. He for one intended hereafter to strike back at his traducers. He favored the "Baltimore plan," as it had been called. The Baltimore plan was further discussed.

The delegates got into a wrangle over a constitutional phase of the subject, but the proposed amendments were finally adopted and the following committee of nine was appointed to present them to Congress: C. C. Homer, Baltimore; A. H. Habsara, New York: Charles Parsons, St.

The delegates got into a wrange over a constitutional phase of the subject, but the proposed amendments were finally adopted and the following committee of nine was appointed to present them to Congress: C. C. Homer, Baltimore; A. B. Hepburn, New York; Charles Parsons, St. Louis; Skipwith Wilmer, Baltimore; G. L. Christian, Richmond; J. C. Hendrix, New York; Horace White, New York; R. J. Lowry, Atlanta, and W. T. Baker, Chicago.

The Nominating Committee presented its report, with Douglas H. Thomas, President of the Merchants' National Bank of Baltimore, as its choice for President of the Bankers' Association, John C. Nealy of Chicago was named for First Vice-President, E. H. Pullen of New York for Chairman of the Executive Council, and Henry W. Ford of New York, Secretary.

Immediately there was a scene of confusion, and deligately there was a scene of confusion, and deligates were on their feet in every direction. It was explained and declared that by all rule and precedent J. J. P. Odell, First Vice-President of the Bankers' Association, was entitled to the Presidency. An amendment was finally adopted giving the Presidency for the ensuing year to Mr. Odell. He is Presidency for the Union National Bank of Chicago. Mr. Douglas H. Thomas of Baltimore was selected as First Vice-President. The other recommendations of the Nominating Committee were agreed to. The Convention then adjourned.

FOR FORGING PASSES.

A Clerk in the N. Y., N. H. and H. Rattrond

What may turn out to be a conspiracy to de-Railroad was brought to light on Wednesday by company's offices here. Wynkoop is charged ard of the New York division to passes. The prisoner, who is 31 years old and has been in the employ of the company for five or six years. was arraigned yesterday morning in the York-ville Police Court, and in default of $3,000 bail was locked up.

About three months ago it was discovered that some of the blank pass books had been tampered with and that several dozens of passes were missing. The passes come in books of fifty and are numbered consecutively. The thief had taken one here and another there, hoping that when the books were used the stubs would be passed unnoticed. Superintendent Shepard decided that the guilty person was a clerk in the office, and he laid a trap to catch him. On Aug. 6 one of the passes stolen was taken up by a conductor.

The pass had been issued on July 25 to C. H. The pass had been issued on July 25 to C. H. Sprague, and was apparently regular, as it bore the signature of the Superintendent. An expert compared specimens of the hand writing of all the clerks in the office with the forget signature, and decided that Wynkoop was the forger. Henry W. Taft, the attorney of the road, said they had evidence that Wynkoop had offered to get passes for a small sum. The stolen passes were sold to scalpers, he says, and he suspects that there are others concerned in the theits because the bodies of the passes were made out in a totally different handwriting from that o'the signature. Whether this is the work 25 some one else in the office he is not prepared to say.

The prisoner lives at 105 East 122d street.

On a table in the reception room was a tiny crodle, wrought in silver. On its counterpane was a card bearing the number 25,097, indicating the number of infants received and cared for during the quarter of a century of the asylum's existence. On either side, also of silver, was a guardian angel. This was a present to the institution.

The Foundling Hospital was first established at 17 West Twelfth street. A larger house was soon secured on the north side of Washington square. After remaining here a few years the hospital was removed to its present locality.

FELL FROM HIS ENGINE.

Fireman Frank E, Brady Killed on the Brooklyn Elevated Rallroad,

Fireman Frank E. Brady, aged 21 years, employed on the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad, fell from his engine yesterday morning and was run over and killed. The train was on its trip to East New York at the time of the accident, Soon after the train started from the ferry

Soon after the train started from the ferry, Brady, according to his usual custom, left the box and elimbed out on the engine to oil it and polish the brass work. As the train was approaching the Vanderbilt avenue station he slipped off and fell under the wheels of the first car. Engineer W. F. Lee brought the train to a stop as quickly as possible, and the fireman was found wedged under the engine. His right leg was almost cut off, and death resulted in a few minutes. Traffle was delayed nearly half an hour in consequence of the accident. Hrady had been employed on the road for a year. He lived with his married sister at 690 Sackett street.

CONTRACTORS EMPLOY ALIENS. The Bock Board Summous Them to Answer

At the meeting of the Dock Board yesterday the inspector of the department who was detailed to report as to whether the Alien law was being observed said that not a single contractor doing business with the department was com-plying with the law. One or more allens, he found, were employed on every job, and in many cases all the men were allens.

The Hoard ordered each contractor to appear next Thursday, and to show cause why the con-tract should not be cancelled.

Louis Aronowitz, the owner of the building at 74 Monroe street, which collapsed on Wednesday morning, killing nine persons, was in the Essex Market Police Court yesterday with David Malsky, who supervised the building operations for him and with whom he claims he nade a contract for the erection of the building. Malaky had disappeared on Wednesday and Aronowitz then said Malsky had the contract and promised to bring it to court yesterday. Yesterday he said his architects had it. Justice Yesterday he said his architects had it. Justice Sims put the case over until to-day. The police still assert that Aronowitz was his own builder and has no contract with Malsky.

Aronowitz yesterday transferred his title to the property at 74 Monroe street to Lena Blumberg, consideration $1.

The victims of the disaster were buried yesterday in Cypress Hills Cemetery. The hearses were followed for some distance from Primary School 36 by crowds of Hebrews with uncovered heads.

The work of shovelling over the ruins was as far completed yesterday that it was demonstrated that no more bodies were beneath them.

A. Kalinsky of 134 Elderidge street was about the ruins yesterday, and complained to the police that an onlooker had stolen a $30 scarf pin from him, but the thief was not caught.

CHURCH GREATER THAN PASTOR. But the Chewers and Smokers of Mount-ville May Not Give Him Up.

FAR ROCKAWAY, L. I., Oct. 11.- Residents of Mountville don't want a pastor for their church next year. They are going to repair the building, and they say they can't stand the extra expense of supporting a pastor. At least this was the tenor of a communication received from them by the Methodist Conference in session in Inwood, near this place. The Rev. session in Inwood, near this place. The Rev. F. A. Jones presided over the Mountville church, and also filled the pulpit of other churches in villages hereabouts. It was said at the conference that the Methodists of Mountville generally took their tobacco with them to church, and expectorated over the floors during service, while others lighted their pipes before leaving the building. The conference finally decided that Mountville was in need of a pastor, and that the church should have one for another year, free of charge.

Although none of the influences that specifically restricted speculation yesterday existed to-day, the volume of transactions on the Stock Exchange was smaller. At the same time there was a little improvement in the tone. The character of the trading was, of course, as profes-sional as ever. On the smallest transactions in weeks Sugar Refining closed at a net advance of 1 $\psi$ cent. The only other noteworthy net gains were those of 1% P cent. in Louisville and Nashville, caused chiefly by moderate foreign purchases of the stock, and in United States Cordage stocks. These last recovered a little more than the ground they lost yesterday, a movement that was attributed partly to a cessation of liquidation and also to probabilities of an improvement in the business of the company. As the Government crop report did not show as large an increase over last month's report in the yield of corn as the Streft had expected, there was some disposition to sell the Granger stocks. The dealings in them, however, were light and the fluctuations narrow. St. Paul closed fractionally higher, while C., B. and Quincy sustained an equally small net decline. An advance in sterling exchange at Berlin, noted further on in this column, precludes exports of specie this week, and was construed by foreign bankers to mean that their German correspondents do not desire to draw gold from this country. Final sales compare with those of yesterday as

The upward movement in sterling exchange came to a halt to-day, but the market was steady at the late advance, and the offerings of commercial bills were absorbed at full figures. Business was light, at usual, on Thursday, and remitters, according to custom, deferred purchases for Saturday's mail until Friday. A rise in sterling at Berlin from 20.58 to 20.37% was regarded as indicating plainly that there were would be no shipments of gold this week. Continental exchange was dull and firm. Pendinary estimate of the spring and winter wheat prediction in a compared with the flast yield.

The decrease in traffic handled, due to general business depression, has according to the report, permitted a reduction in operating expenses without detriment to the property. The greatest decrease in commodities handled has been in wheat, anthracite and bituminous coal, and in lumber, and the entire lose of shipments of building material to the head of the lakes. Since the close of the fiscal year the country for traversed by the road has been visited by severe fires, causing great loss of life and property that cannot yet be accurately estimated. The first in the main track for eighten unlies were so badly damaged that 20,000 these are necessary for replacement. The loss austained is fully covered by insurance. The directors have made sense one offers to the sufferers who are willing to return and assist in reactiling the country.

Sinancial. TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad Company. Those who are responsible for the downfall of the Atchison system and others who have been placed is positions by the action of those managers, are new working together in a desperate struggle to retain terested in construction companies, the bankers ambrokers of the old management, the attorneys and exscutive officers of the company under that management, the General Reorganization Committee who was created by that management, all are combined with their votes and influence to forestall the Proptive Committee in its efforts to place this property is the hands of a new and superior Board of Directors who will uncover its past and give it untrammeled development in the future. Out of thousands of prex tes our Committee has not received one from sucr the friends of the old management, but there are holders of some 300,000 shares who have never been affiliated with the old management, and are not in sympathy with it, who have not yet been aroused rom their indifference or neglect. We now call upon such stockholders to join with us for protection of their own interests in a triumphant victory in favor of the purification and good name of American rail-Atchison Protective Reorganization Com-
